10 In-Game Scoring

10.1 General

The final rank of the tournament is determined based on the accumulated number of chicken dinners won.

10.2 Tie Breaker

- A. If 10.1 results in a tie, higher rank is given to the team with the higher accumulated kill points.
- B. If 10.2(A) also results in a tie,
 - i. if the teams have competed in the same match, higher rank is given to the team finishing with the higher team rank in the last match that the teams competed in together, and
 - ii. if the teams have not competed in any matches together, then rank is determined based on 10.2(C)
- C. If 10.2(B) does not break the tie, higher rank is given to the team with the higher rank from their respective best-performing match (i.e. for each team it's the match in which such team finished with its highest team rank).
- D. If 10.2(C) does not break the tie, higher rank is given to the team with the higher kill points from their best-performing match, provided if a team has more than one match tied for its best-performing match, then such team's best-performing match used for 10.2(D) shall be the one of its best-performing matches which had the highest kill points.
- E. If 10.2(D) does not break the tie, higher rank is given to the team with the higher accumulated damage from their best-performing match, provided if team has more than one match tied for its best-performing match, then such team's best-performing match used for 10.2(E) shall be the one of its best-performing matches which had the highest accumulated damage.
- F. If 10.2(E) does not break the tie, the teams will be deemed to have finished tied and shall split the applicable prizing for the two spots. I.e. if two teams tied for 5th place, they would evenly split the cumulative prizing for 5th and 6th place.
